SEMINOLE HARD ROCK HOTEL & CASINO HOLLYWOOD UNVEILS 'ZONA DE FUEGO' FLORIDA'S FIRST FULLY INTEGRATED LATIN GAMING & ENTERTAINMENT EXPERIENCE

Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino Hollywood today unveiled Zona de Fuego, Florida's first fully integrated Latin gaming and entertainment experience, during an exclusive preview held as part of its Hispanic Heritage Month celebration, "My Rhythm. My Flavor. ¡Mi Gente!"

The launch builds on the resort's broader commitment to the Latin community, with more than 75 Latin artist performances and Latin-focused events and concerts on property in 2026 alone. Hard Rock Live's lineup includes upcoming performances by Ricky Martin, Dalvin La Melodia, Marcello Hernandez, Grupo Niche and Menudo. The resort also hosts the popular "Noches de Neon" pool parties several times a year and plans to continue the series. Ongoing culinary pop-ups featuring Michelin-starred Latin chefs showcase Latin America's diverse flavors and culinary traditions. Guests can also look forward to Sabores de Las Americas, a Latin food festival taking place Nov. 14.

Joined by several world-renowned Latin music artists, influencers and media personalities for the first bet, President of Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino Randy Morton stated, "Zona de Fuego represents an evolution of Seminole Hard Rock Hollywood's multicultural entertainment offerings while strengthening our longstanding connection to the Hispanic community. We created an exciting and welcoming destination that celebrates the energy, diversity, and cultural influence of South Florida's Hispanic community while bringing guests together through gaming, music, food, and shared experiences."

Inspired by Miami's global Latin identity, Zona de Fuego brings the energy, culture and sense of belonging of "Mi Gente" to the casino experience.

An Evening with Author J.P. Linstroth at Books & Books

Tuesday, November 24, 2026 | 7:00 PM | Coral Gables, Florida

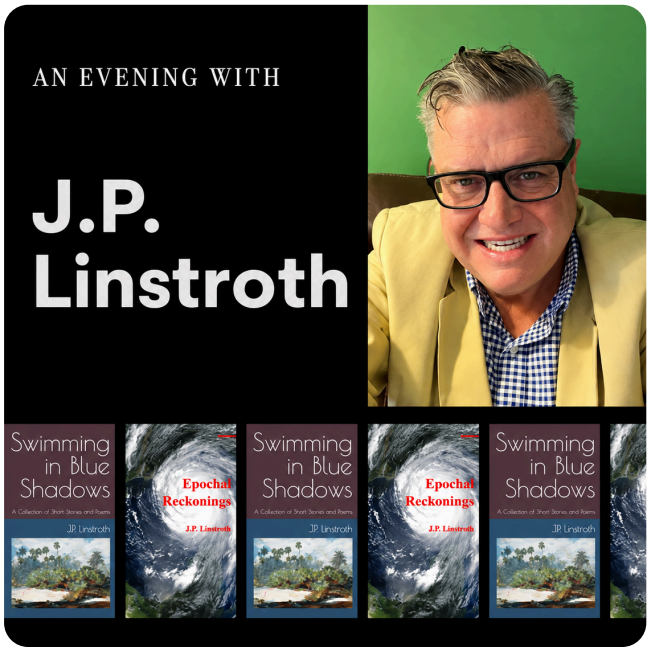

Join acclaimed literary venue Books & Books in Coral Gables for a special evening with author and editor J.P. Linstroth, who will discuss two of his thought-provoking works, Swimming in Blue Shadows and Epochal Reckonings, both published by Proverse Hong Kong. Blending poetry, short stories, and insightful social commentary, Linstroth explores the complexities of the human experience, from love and loss to the profound challenges of our modern world. Swimming in Blue Shadows offers an engaging literary journey through themes including relationships, artificial intelligence, and contemporary society, while Epochal Reckonings confronts some of the most consequential tragedies and injustices of the 21st century, encouraging readers to approach humanity's struggles with greater compassion and empathy. This intimate literary gathering offers South Florida readers an opportunity to meet the author, discover his writing, and participate in a meaningful conversation about literature and life.

Location: Books & Books, 265 Aragon Avenue, Coral Gables, FL 33134.

Admission is FREE and open to the public, with books available for purchase during the event. Seating is limited and not guaranteed, so early arrival is encouraged.

ABOUT BOOKS & BOOKS

Founded in 1982 by Mitchell Kaplan, Books & Books in Coral Gables is one of South Florida's most beloved independent bookstores and a celebrated destination for literature, culture, and intellectual conversation. Located at 265 Aragon Avenue in a beautifully restored Mediterranean-style historic building, this literary landmark offers an exceptional selection of books, a charming open-air courtyard café, and a lively calendar of author appearances, book signings, lectures, and cultural events. Over the decades, Books & Books has welcomed internationally acclaimed writers, journalists, scholars, and public figures, establishing itself as much more than a bookstore. With its warm atmosphere, rich literary heritage, and commitment to bringing readers and authors together, Books & Books remains an essential gathering place in the heart of Coral Gables.

Artist & Producer Zachary Jacobson

Gural & Jacobson, LLC announced today that Zachary "Zack" Jacobson has joined the feature film project Buddy from Brooklyn as executive consulting producer. The film is inspired by the life of his grandfather, Howard "Buddy" Jacobson, the prominent and controversial New York horse trainer whose career and later legal troubles became one of racing's most dramatic stories.
Jacobson's appointment gives the production a direct family connection and access to personal history, racing knowledge and insight into the people and relationships that shaped Buddy's world.

"Zack brings a perspective no outside consultant could provide," said Jay Shapiro, writer and executive producer of Buddy from Brooklyn. "His family history, knowledge of racing and experience in film, music and visual art will be invaluable as we develop this story for the screen."
Jacobson comes from a Thoroughbred racing lineage spanning more than a century. His great-great-uncle Hirsch Jacobs was a Hall of Fame trainer, breeder and owner whose record-setting career left a lasting mark on American racing. Hirsch and his brothers, Sidney and Eugene Jacobs, established a family tradition that continued through later generations. Buddy Jacobson became one of New York's most successful and recognizable trainers during the 1960s and 1970s, and Zack's father is also widely respected within the racing community.
As executive consulting producer, Jacobson will advise on family history, racing culture, character development and the broader social world surrounding Buddy Jacobson. His involvement will help the filmmakers recreate New York racetracks, Manhattan nightlife and the interconnected worlds of racing, fashion, entertainment and organized crime.

In addition to being a racehorse owner, Jacobson is an artist, entertainer, film producer and musician. He and Shapiro share interests in visual storytelling, Indian art and culture, and gallery events that bring together artists, collectors and entertainment professionals. Their common creative outlook adds another dimension to the collaboration.
